Coming Attractions.

Creator comes to Janesville for a Sunday evening concert March 6th. The Akron papers say of the musical treat:

Of all the musical organizations that have ever visited Akron, none has ever delighted its audience as did Creator's Italian band at the Colonial theatre last evening. A large audience was present, and to say that every one was delighted would be to put it very mildly. One could not help but be transported, carried away, at the grand bursts of music which marked the climaxes, while the softer and more subtle parts soothed and entranced beyond measure. It was a musical feast such as Akron people have never before had the pleasure of partaking of, and no one wonders now that the band has created such a furore throughout the country.

While the band is composed of individually fine musicians as was amply evidenced in the sextet from "Lucia di Lammermoor," its success is due to the leader, the great Creator. If it is his wonderful baton that seems to fairly draw the music out of the instruments of his men, never before has a leader been seen to work so hard and to whom apparently is due so much credit for the results achieved. The listener feels like very soul going out as he watches the movements of the bandmaster and every sympathetic feeling is in perfect accord with him. Those movements, which at first seemed so bizarre and grotesque, become the very spirit and essence of music and one soon forgets that there was something to laugh at in his admiration and wonder. After having seen him, there can be no suspicion that Creator is striving after sensationalism. He feels the music which he is endeavoring to secure from his band, and whatever gyrations he may indulge in are the unconscious results of his efforts in that direction. The exactness with which every note is produced seems to be and is the product of the efforts of the director. Particularly in the climaxes is this true, and in the great crashes which mark some of the numbers on the program the genius of Creator is most evident. Nothing has ever been heard in Akron for thrilling grandeur which excelled the overture from "Tannhauser" as given by this band.

Winter Pastimes.

Sled Racing and Leaping at St. Moritz, Switzerland & Madison (Wis.) Iceboating.

Switzerland may well be termed "the home of the ice sportsman," notwithstanding Canada's strong claim to the title.

In the little Alpine republic all sorts of snow and ice pastimes thrive, and most are of the simplest description. For instance, one of the leading diversions is coasting, on a much more extensive and yet less complicated plan than our tobogganing.

Instead of erecting clubhouses and designing elaborate inclined wooden structures, as do our toboggan enthusiasts, as a general rule the Swiss sportsmen select an extended stretch of sloping ground, providing one or more particularly steep ascents here and there, and lay out a racing course by banking the snow on either side and pounding the floor of the track to board-like hardness. Now all is ready, and warmly clad natives and tourists vie in sledding from end to end against time.

Some sensational records have been made, as the sleds bound downward with tremendous velocity.

A favorite variation of coasting is "sled leaping," which consists of speeding to an icy "take off," where the coaster pulls upward on his sled in its bounding flight and launches forward into a bed of loosely packed snow.

He who covers the greatest distance over the snow bed from the "take off," is, of course, the winner.

The center of Swiss snow and ice sports in the famed resort, St. Moritz. There has been constructed a magnificent sledding track called the Cresta run.

The run can be used all winter, and travelers consider it a potent attraction when outlining trips on the continent.

In the illustrations accompanying this article are shown scenes on the Cresta run.

Madison, Wis., has one of the largest and fastest fleets of ice yachts in the northwest. The Madison Yacht club has a membership of nearly 100, most of whom are active and own and run ice yachts. It is no uncommon sight to see from thirty to fifty yachts on the lakes flanking the city any pleasant day during the winter.

The yachts carry from two to ten persons, depending upon their size and the velocity of the wind.

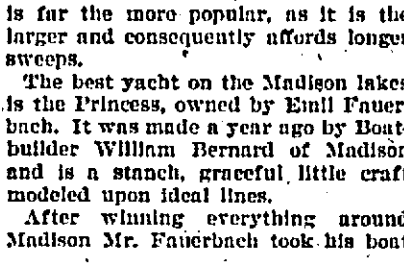

The speed attained in a stiff wind is often terrific, exceeding frequently a mile a minute.

On a pleasant day, with the wind favorable, the yachts will often race fast trains on the Chicago and Northwestern road running along Lake Monona, and it is a poor boat that cannot easily fly away from the trains.

Most of the boating is done on Lake Monona because that is less troubled with snow than Lake Mendota, though when the latter is in good condition it is far the more popular, as it is the larger and consequently affords longer sweeps.

The best yacht on the Madison lakes is the Princess, owned by Emil Faerberbach. It was made a year ago by boat-builder William Bernard of Madison and is a staunch, graceful, little craft modeled upon ideal lines.

After winning everything around Madison Mr. Faerberbach took his boat to the Gull lake regatta at Kalamazoo, Mich., last winter, where it made a splendid showing, winning two of the four races for outside boats and breaking the world's record by making ten miles in sixteen minutes.

In addition to the Princess there are a score of high class yachts in Madison, any one of which would be a credit to the sport. Among the very best are the Zulu, owned by Louis H. Hobbes, and the Eleanor, owned by W. Deike. These boats have demonstrated their fleetness repeatedly and have fairly won their title to first rank.

SLAVERY IS OVER.

Secretary Taft Says Bondage Has Disappeared From Philippines.

Washington, Feb. 11.—Secretary of War Taft reviewed conditions in the Philippine islands before the house committee on insular affairs. In regard to the Patterson bill to abolish slavery in the islands, he said that there was not the slightest objection to the passage of the bill, although, in his judgment, there was no use for the measure, as slavery already had been abolished legislatively by the terms of the Philippine act. Regarding the friar land negotiations, while the Philippine government might lose perhaps $1,500,000 or $2,000,000 by the purchase of the friar lands and their subsequent sale to Filipinos, he thought the beneficial effects from a political standpoint amply justified the transaction.

Fire Shell Fifteen Miles.

Washington, Feb. 11.—One of the officers of the battleship Missouri, which has been engaged in target practice off the Chesapeake capes, came to the Navy Department with a remarkable statement. He said that one of the 12-inch guns, being elevated seven degrees, let fly a shell which the strongest class could not follow to the end of its flight. Later a passing steamer reported that the shot had struck the sea within 300 yards of her. The steamer was distant from the Missouri just fifteen miles.

Aged Usher to Speak.

Washington, Feb. 11.—Among the speakers at the Lincoln banquet in Grand Rapids, Mich., Friday night will be Thomas F. Pendel, who for forty years has been an usher in the White House. Pendel is now 80 years old, and it was he who last escorted President Lincoln from the White House to his carriage on the night of the assassination. Mr. Pendel goes as the guest of Representative William Alden Smith, who also will be accompanied by Baron von Sternberg, the German ambassador.

Hay's Carriages.

Washington, Feb. 11.—The State Department answer to the House carriage resolution was transmitted to that body by President Roosevelt. The total cost of the carriage outfit is $2,345. Four assistant messengers at $60 a month are employed as drivers. No footmen or automobiles are employed.

Favor Put-in-Bay.

Washington, Feb. 11.—The Ohio delegation in the House met and endorsed an amendment to the naval appropriation bill providing for a naval training station at Put-in-Bay, Lake Erie, in stead of the proposed station on Lake Michigan.

Food of Chinese.

The great majority of the Pekin population are nourished mainly by millet simply boiled in water, rice, cabbage, sweet potatoes, pickled turnips. The Chinese eat also much Indian meal and wheat, of which they make cakes with dough not leavened and cooked by steam. Thanks to this regime the Chinese enjoy an admirable liberty of ventre, and that undoubtedly is the cause of their appendicular immunity.

When Nerves Burned Out By Strain of Toll and Care

IT GAVE NEW NERVE FORCE

When the pace of modern life has burned up all the nerve force IT BURNS UP THE NERVES THEMSELVES unless new force is supplied.

"It Has Been Worth a Thousand Dollars to Me."

By Miss Florence Worden, New York, Nov. 9, 1903.

314 W. 47th St.

"Paine's Celery Compound has been worth a thousand dollars to me. I would certainly not take that sum and give back the benefit I have received from your remedy."

"Last Spring the strain of my professional duties left me a nervous wreck. I went home, and for weeks was nursed by my mother as an absolute invalid."

"My digestion was very weak, and I suffered agonies from neuralgia. Our doctor said it was all due to my weakened nerves, but he was not able to make me any better."

"A girl friend who heard of my illness sent me a bottle of Paine's Celery Compound, with such a cheerful, hopeful letter, telling what it had done for her, that I was encouraged to give it a serious trial."

"I took four bottles, and by the end of Summer I was well—absolutely well. My neuralgia was gone, and it has never returned."

"And I can eat any kind of food without fear."

"Not since I was a child have I felt such buoyant health and spirits. Our doctor saw me before I returned to the city and he was astonished."

"I am happy to send you this new photograph as a proof of the benefit I have received from Paine's Celery Compound."

How a Young Woman of His Parish Was Cured of Consumption by Father John's Medicine.

Writing from La Fargeville, N. Y., Rev. Fr. Joseph Pontur, of St. John's parish, said: "One of my parishioners, almost despondent of ever getting cured, given up by the doctors as a consumptive, upon my firm advice is using Father John's Medicine and since has been constantly improving, to the great joy of her parents and friends."

"Four months later, Rev. Father Pontur writes: 'The young woman referred to in my previous letter, who was given up by all the doctors as a consumptive, continues to improve wonderfully by using Father John's Medicine.'

Janesville Daily Gazette, Thursday, February 11, 1864.—Letter From Col. Lyons to the "Thirteenth."—Headquarters 13th Wisconsin Veteran Volunteers, Camp Bigbee, near Nashville, Tenn., Feb. 7, 1864. Hon. R. B. Treat, Mayor of Janesville:—

My Dear Sir:—The 13th to the number of four hundred have enlisted as veterans—and we have our orders to report at Janesville for the usual veteran furlough. We expect to leave here, unless detained by the exigencies of the service in five or six days, and we hope to reach Janesville by the 16th of 17th inst. May I ask you to secure some building or rooms where we can store our arms—and where the men can be quartered for the day or two which will be required to make out furloughs. We will go on river and I will telegraph you from Cairo. I trust our people at home will remember these veterans in the matter of local bounties to volunteers. Yours very respectfully, WM. P. Wisconsin Come to the Rescue.—The Carlo Daily News says: "One thousand new recruits for old regiments arrived here yesterday from Madison, Wis., and they say that there are at least three thousand more to follow. Recruits are arriving at Madison by the hundreds. Wisconsin promises to be not far behind Illinois in the noble work of Union-savings. Let the good work go on."

Mild.—The weather today has been in a melting mood—the snow and ice disappearing rapidly. The sleigh ride from this city to Milton, which took place on Tuesday evening last, was just in the nick of time, as the opportunity for that species of amusement seems to be passing away for the season. We understand that the party enjoyed themselves immensely.

THE DEVIL AND THE DEEP SEA
The Wall Street Journal has in a recent issue a telling editorial which is well worth being copied from one end of the United States to the other. It talks politics from start to finish and politics that it does one good to read:

"A certain section of the financial world found itself between the devil and the deep sea, as represented respectively by President Roosevelt and the Democratic party. Ever since Attorney-General Knox took action in the Northern Securities case on the President's order, it has been clear that the powers of Wall street desired his defeat. Anything to defeat Roosevelt has been the motto since that time. It is not necessary to describe the details, but it is quite important to note the fact that Wall street, or at least a very large section of Wall street, apparently finds itself in the position of having to aid Mr. Roosevelt to a renomination, or to aid the Democratic party in encompassing his defeat. No one supposes at this time that the Republican party can possibly win with anybody but President Roosevelt. He can only be beaten by a Democrat. Wall street thus is compelled to take either a Republican whom it cannot control, or a Democrat whose purpose it abhors. The chances are, however, that in the next few months we shall see a determined effort made to undermine the President's position and weaken his hold on his party, and the people at large."

These words, written a year ago, have been confirmed by the course of events since. These financial interests have not come out in the open in antagonism to Mr. Roosevelt, but by every secret channel of influence, in conversation, in correspondence, in intrigue, and especially through the medium of those newspapers which they control, they have made every effort to undermine President Roosevelt's popularity, weaken his strength with business men, and create such a feeling against him as would secure his defeat for the Republican nomination, or, failing in that, to make sure of the nomination by the Democratic party of a candidate who might be depended upon to defeat Mr. Roosevelt at the polls, and thereafter consult the interests of these financial leaders.

What has been the result of these efforts? For a time it looked, indeed, as if possibly the attempt to defeat Roosevelt might succeed. The reaction in trade was used with some effect against him. The fears of conservative business men were played upon and the idea that the President was "unsafe" was spread abroad. But it soon became apparent that the inroads made upon the President's popularity and upon the confidence which is so generally held in his honesty of purpose and his courage in action, were not serious. The attempt to concentrate the opposition to him around the person of Senator Hanna has failed miserably. The alluring bait which has been dangled once after the other before the eyes of Secretary Hay and Secretary of War Taft, to get them to consent to stand for the nomination in opposition to their chief has not been seized. Both men have stood firm and faithful to the head of the administration to which they belong. After several months of labor, of agitation, of secret intrigue, these financial interests have at least discovered that the effort to defeat Mr. Roosevelt for the nomination is hopeless.

Meanwhile they have been giving aid and encouragement to the conservative element in the Democratic party in its attempt to reorganize Mr. Bryan and Bryanism out of it. It. Mr. Roosevelt could not be defeated for the nomination, the financial interests opposing him were prepared to defeat him at the polls by a Democratic candidate, with whom they might be able to do business. For a time the Democratic reorganizers appeared to make great headway. They met with warm support of many sincere and honest Democrats who were obliged to abandon the party in the last two presidential campaigns on account of the financial heresies contained in Mr. Bryan's platform, but who earnestly desired an opportunity to return to the party fold provided they could do so on terms which would preserve their self-respect and honesty. But the reorganizers have found it impossible to agree upon any candidate who would be able to unite the two irreconcilable elements in the party. One after another have the names of Cleveland, Olney, Gorman, Parker and McClellan been used, but without securing that unanimity and enthusiasm which give promise of success. There is reason to believe that the fact that the financial interests in Wall street opposed to Mr. Roosevelt were waiting for an opportunity to attach themselves to a conservative Democrat, who might be nominated by that party, has served to weaken the movement of the Democratic reorganizers by loading it with the burden of this Wall street support. Whatever was to be gained by a decision in the ranks of the Republican party and the securing of substantial pecuniary support from the financial interests, was lost in popular standing by the conviction that an alliance was contemplated between the Democratic party and that element in Wall street, which opposed Roosevelt because they could not control him.

But whatever progress was made by the Democratic reorganizers, they were brought to a sudden halt by the aggressive stand taken by Mr. Bryan upon his return from Europe. Whatever else may be thought about Mr. Bryan, there can be no doubt that his public utterance, since returning, have made a deep impression. He is the only figure now which looms large upon the Democratic horizon, and he is the only Democratic leader who has the courage of his convictions. His recent utterances make the prospect of the nomination of a conservative candidate at the St. Louis convention of the Democratic party very doubtful indeed. It takes a two-thirds vote to nominate a candidate in the Democratic convention, and to say that Mr. Bryan and following will control at least one-third of the delegates seems a very modern estimate.

Thus the "anything to beat Roosevelt" movement started by those Wall street interests which discovered that a President whom they had paid their good money to help elect would not recognize a financial obligation to them, has come to pieces. These financial interests are, indeed, between "the devil and the deep sea." They have not even succeeded in arraying Wall street solidly against him. Some of the most substantial and highly respected financiers have refused to take part in the movement against him.

Those newspapers which are known to be most closely identified with the financial interests opposed to Roosevelt now admit that his nomination is inevitable. Harper's Weekly, whose connection with certain of these financial interests is so close as to make its utterances an official expression of their views says in its last issue: "Anything to beat him (Mr. Roosevelt) is the expression of a stern determination, a Republican preferably, a Democrat if necessary, but anybody will do." Then later it speaks of the situation as being "a choice of evils."

Thus one year after the publication in The Wall Street Journal, Harper's Weekly as an organ of the financial interests opposed to Roosevelt admits that its diagnosis is correct. Harper's Weekly even goes so far as to admit that any conservative Democrat would be backed by a campaign fund ten times as large as could be raised for Mr. Roosevelt, but it is convinced that Mr. Hanna's nomination would result in the nomination and election of Bryan by the Democrats, and it takes the stand that Mr. Roosevelt's nomination would result in the naming of his antithesis by the Democrats. This, it says, would be a "choice of evils" which is only another way of repeating what we said a year ago, that these financial interests stand between "the devil and the deep sea."

Now what is the meaning of this latest court circular announcement? It is so plain that he who runs may read and comprehend. Summed up, it is this:

The financial interests who are opposed to Roosevelt, because they cannot use him, have made up their minds that his nomination is inevitable; and that to defeat him with Mr. Hanna or some other Republican in sympathy with him would result in the nomination and election of Bryan. Therefore, as a choice of evils they bow to the nomination of Roosevelt in hopes that that will force the nomination of a Democrat who would, if elected, consult these interests, and for whom, therefore, they could give their votes and their aid. But the prospect of the nomination of a conservative Democrat is coming more and more distant. The financial interests, therefore, have failed to get rid of the devil and they find that the great deep sea into which they were at first willing to jump as a choice of evils is controlled now, as in 1896 and 1900, by the spirit of Bryanism—but a Bryanism strengthened and broadened.

THE BABCOCK CONTEST.
The Third district is the storm center at present time, and the administration are leaving no stone unturned to accomplish the defeat of Congressman Babcock's nomination. It is an unseemly fight as well as unusual. A governor rarely descends to the level of the pot house politician, and yet this is being done in the Third district. The fight was inaugurated by the governor six months ago, and half a dozen or more candidates representing as many counties were led to believe that they would be supported by the game wardens, all inspectors and administration forces generally.

Should the governor lose, as he is likely to do, it will be a body blow to the administration. To those who have watched the course of events it is very apparent that the governor has undertaken a larger contest than he is able to carry out. Mr. Babcock may not be in accord with modern reform. He could not very well be and maintain self respect. But he is a long ways from being either a fool or asleep. The state has no more astute politician than this same man Babcock, and when his convention convenes, lastly next month, it will be discovered that he is very much in evidence. He is entitled to win, and there is but little doubt that he will.

PRESS COMMENT.

Millwaukee Free Press: Doctor Wilder says that President Roosevelt dare never declare war, because at 10,000,000 breakfast tables would break out and cry, "I told you so." But that would never deter him from declaring war. He would not care for the I-told-you-sos of ten million times ten million breakfast tables. He would rather be pleased to think that the people know him so well. But there are reasons why President Roosevelt will never declare war. They are more important reasons than all of the breakfast tables in Christendom. There are, in fact, two reasons why he will never do it. One is, he has no power to do it; and the other is, congress does have that power. So the doctor is right when he gravely remarks that President Roosevelt will never dare declare war.

Rice Lake Leader: The claims of the political hirelings (paid by the state) that La Follette was the originator of the anti-pass and railroad tax law is all bosh—simply rot. The only piece of legislation for which Mr. La Follette can claim responsibility is the mortgage tax law by which over $20,000,000 worth of mortgages in the hands of capitalists and money lenders escaped taxation, the taxes which they should have paid being spread out on the little holdings of God's patient poor. The poor are taxed and the rich go free. Verily, the governor is a great man—for the rich.

Enu Claire Leader: At Janesville a local paper printed a list of backsliders, and announced that later it would print a list of old maids. The maids of the town got together and had legal papers served on the unwise editor preventing him from carrying out this fell design. In Enu Claire a different course would have been pursued. The editor here who would have undertaken such an "enterprise" would probably be fed to the fishes of the lordly Chippewa.

Chicago Inter-Ocean: Who is Heul Yi? Why, Heul Yi is "Offspring of the Sun," "Cousin of the Moon," "Familiar of the Stars," etc., etc. In other words, Heul Yi is his majesty the Emperor of Korea. And all things considered, it really seems as if Heul Yi should be quite as much in evidence just now as either Nicholas or Mutsuhito.

Wisconsin State Journal: In the meantime the attorney general, Mr. Sturdevant, is feeling rather happy than otherwise, and reasonably comfortable because the expenses of his assistants have diverted attention for the moment from the bail mess he got into through opening another man's letter.

La Crosse Chronicle: The conclusion that Mr. Babcock has the Third district well in hand, has become general. There will be further conclusions of similar import reached before the holding of that convention which is to be held in the spring if it isn't held in the fall.

Chicago Chronicle: The Japanese soldiers subsist largely on fish and fish will keep without embalming.

Racine Journal: Wisconsin wants and demands less belligerency in her executives. She wants one who will not be the whole push.

JUNIOR PROM IS TO COST MONEY

The Class Will Lose Four Hundred Dollars on the Great Dance of the Year.

(Special to The Gazette)
Madison, Wis., Feb. 10.—The Junior promenade to be given Friday night will net a financial loss of $400 to the student body managing the ultra-swell dance. At a meeting of the board tonight it developed that only 217 of the $6 admission tickets had been sold, while the board had counted on selling 310. The contracted expenses are approximately $1,800. The "interim" orders for tickets fell off on an average of five for each dollar letter society of the prom. This year, rather than a profit-making event as in previous years, are the failure of the leaders of Madison society to participate, unprejudiced restrictions by the faculty reducing the brilliancy of the affair and taking from the patronage, and the exorbitant price of admission, $6 a couple.

CHAPTER XL.—(Continued.)

"You devil! you arch fiend!" exclaimed the regent, starting up and laying his hand on his sword. "There is no punishment you do not deserve! You will leave me in this plight—you— you, who have supplanted me at every turn; who made that horrible scene but last night at my own table, within the very gates of the Palais Royal; you, the murderer of the woman I adored! And now, you mocker and flatterer of what may be my bitterest misfortune—why, sir, no punishment is sharp enough for you! Why do you stand there, sir? Do you dare to mock me—to mock us, the person of the king?"

"I mock not in the least, your grace," said John Law, "nor do I ought else that ill becometh a gentleman. I should have been proud to be known as the friend of Philippe of Orleans, yet I stand before that Philippe of Orleans and tell him that that man doth not live, nor that set of horrors exist, which can frighten John Law, nor cause him to depart from that stand which he once has taken. Sir, if you seek to frighten me, you fail."

"But, look, you—consider," said the regent, "something must be done."

"As I said," replied Law.

"But what is going to happen? What will the people do?"

"First," said Law, judiciously, flicking at the deep lace of his cuff as though he were taking into consideration the price of a wig or cane, "first, the price of a share—having gone to 12,000 livres this morning, by two o'clock will be so low as 10,000. By three o'clock this afternoon it will be 8,000. Then, your grace, there will be panic. Then the spell will be broken. France will rub her eyes and begin to awaken. Then, since the king can do no wrong, and since the regent is the king, your grace can do one of two things. He can send a body-guard to watch my door, or he can see John Law torn into fragments, as these people would tear the real author of their undoing, did they but recognize him."

"But can nothing be done to stop this? Can it not be accommodated?"

"Ask yourself. But I must go on to say what these people will do. All at once they will demand specie for their notes. The Prince de Conti will drive his coaches to the door of your bank, and demand that they be loaded with gold. Jacques and Raoul and Pierre, and every peasant and pavior in Paris will come with boxes and panniers, and each of them will also demand his gold. Make edicts, your grace. Publish broadcast and force out into public, on every highway of France, your decree that gold and silver are not so good as your bank notes; that no one must have gold or silver; that no one must send his gold and silver out of France, but that all must bring it to the king and take for it in exchange these notes of yours. Try that. It ought to succeed, ought it not, your grace?" His bantering tone sank into one of half plausibility.

"Why, surely. That would be the solution."

"Oh, think you so? Your grace is wondrous keen as a financier! Now take the counsel of Dubois, of D'Argenson, my very good friends. This is what they will counsel you to do. And I will counsel you at the same time to avail yourself of their advice. Tell all France to bring in its gold, to enable you to put something essential under the value of all this paper money which you have been sending out so lavishly, so unthinkingly, so without stint or measure."

"Yes. And then?"

"Why, then, your grace," said Law, "then we shall see what we shall see!" The regent again choked with anger. Law continued. "Go on. Smooth down the back of this animal. Continue to reduce these taxes. The specie of the realm of France, as I am banker enough to know, is not more than 1,200,000,000 livres, allowing 65 livres to the marc. Yet long before this your grace has crowded the issue of our actions until there are out not less than 2,600,000,000 livres in the stock of our company. Your Brothers Paris, your D'Argenson, your Dubois will tell you how you can make the people of France continue to believe that twice two is not four, that twice 13 is not 26!"

"But this they are doing," broke in the regent, with a ray of hope in his face. "This they are doing. We have provided for that. In the council not an hour ago the Abbe Dubois and Monsieur d'Argenson decided that the time had come to make some fixed proportion between the specie and these notes. We have to-day framed an edict, which the parliament will register, stating that the interests of the subjects of the king require that the price of these bank notes should be lessened, so that there may be some sort of accommodation between them and the coin of the realm. We have ordered that the shares shall, within 30 days, drop to 7,500 livres, in another 30 days to 7,000 livres, and so on, at 500 livres a month, until at last they shall have a value of one-half what they were to-day. Then, tell me, my wise Monsieur L'as, would not the issue of our notes and the total of our specie be equal, one with the other? The only wrong thing is this insulting presumption of these people, who have sold actions at a price lower than we have decreed."

Law smiled as he replied. "You say excellently well, my master. These plans surely show that you and your able counselors have studied deeply the questions of finance! I have told you what would happen to-day without any decree of the king. Now go you on, and make your decrees. You will find that the people are much more eager for values which are going up than values which are going down. Start your shares down hill, and you will see all France scramble for such coin, such plate, such jewels as may be within the ability of France to lay her hands upon. Tell me, your grace, did Monsieur d'Argenson advise you this morning, as to the total issue of the actions of this company?"

"Surely he did, and here I have it in memorandum, for I was to have taken it up with yourself," replied the regent.

"So," exclaimed Law, a look of surprise passing over his countenance, until now rigidly controlled, as he gazed at the little slip of paper. "Your grace advises me that there are issued at this time in the shares of the company no less than two 2,235,085,690 livres in notes! Against this, as your grace is good enough to agree with me, we have 1,200,000,000 of specie. Your grace, yourself and I have seen some pretty games in our day. Look you, the merriest game of all your life is now but just before you!"

"And you would go and leave me at this time?"

"Never in my life have I forsaken a friend at the time of distress," replied Law. "But your grace absolved me when you forsook me, when you doubted and hesitated regarding me, and believed the protestations of those not so able as myself to judge of what was best. And now it is too late. Will your grace allow me to suggest that a place behind stout gates and barred doors, deep within the interior of the Palais Royal, will be the best residence for him to-night—perhaps for several nights to come?"

CHAPTER XLI.

THE BREAKING OF THE BUBBLE.

It was the evening of the day following that on which John Law and the regent of France had met in their stormy interview. During the morning but little had transpired regarding the significant events of the previous day. In these vast and excited crowds, divided into groups and cliques and factions, aided by no bulletins, counseled by no printed page, there was but little cohesion of purpose, since there was little unity of understanding. The price of shares at one kiosk might be certain thousands of livres, whereas a square away, the price might vary by half as many livres; so impetuous was the advance of these continually rising prices, and so frenzied and careless the temper of those who bargained for them.

Yet before noon of the day following the decree of the regent, which fixed the value of actions upon a descending scale, the news, after a fashion of its own spread rapidly abroad, and all too swiftly the truth was generally known. The story started in a rumor, that shares had been offered and declined at a price which had been current but a few moments before. This was something which had not been known in all these feverish months of the Messiasse. Then came the story that shares could not be counted upon to realize over 8,000 livres. At that the price of all the actions dropped in a flash, as Law had prophesied. A sudden wave of sanity, a panic chill of sober understanding swept over this vast multitude of still unreasoning souls who had traded so long upon this impossible supposition of an ever-advancing market. Reason still lacked among them, yet fear and sudden suspicion were not wanting. Man after man hastened swiftly away to sell privately his shares before greater drop in the price might come. He met others upon the same errand.

Precisely the reverse of the old situation now obtained. As all Paris had fought to buy, so now all Paris fought to sell. The streets were filled with clamoring mobs. If earlier there had been confusion, now there was pandemonium. Never was such a scene witnessed. Never was there chronicled so swift and utter reversion of emotion in the minds of a great concourse of people. Bitter indeed was the wave of agony that swept over Paris. It began at the Messiasse, in the gardens of the Hotel de Soisson, at that focus hard by the temple of Fortuna. It spread and spread, edging out into all the remotest portions of the walled city. It reached ultimately the extreme confines of Paris. Into the crowded square which had been decreed as the trading-place of the Messiasse system, there crowded from the outer periphery yet other thousands of excited human beings. The end had come. The bubble had burst. There was no longer any system of the Messiasse!

It was late in the day, in fact well on toward night, when the knowledge of the crash came into the neighborhood where dwelt the Lady Catharine Knollys. To her the news was brought by a servant, who excitedly burst unannounced into her mistress's presence.

"Madame! Madame!" she cried. "Prepare! 'Tis horrible! 'Tis impossible! All is at an end!"

"What mean you, girl?" cried Lady Catharine, displeased at the disrespect.

"What is happening? Is there fire? And even if there were, could you not remember your duty more seemly than this?"

"Worse, worse than fire, Madame! Worse than anything! The bank has failed! The shares of the system are going down! 'Tis said that 'we can get but 3,000 livres the share, perhaps less—perhaps they will go down to nothing. I am ruined, ruined! We are all ruined! And within a month I was to have been married to the footman of the Marquis d'Allouez, who has bought himself a title this very week!'"

"And if it has fallen so ill," said Lady Catharine, "since I have not speculated in these things like most folk, I shall be none the worse for it, and shall still have money to pay your wages. So perhaps you can marry your marquis after all."

"But we shall not be rich, Madame! We are ruined, ruined! Mon Dieu! we poor folk! We had the hope to be persons of quality. 'Tis all the work of this villain Jean L'as. May the bastille get him, or the people, and make him pay for this!"

"Stop! Enough of this, Marie!" said the Lady Catharine, sternly. "After this any better wisdom, and do not meddle in things which you do not understand."

Yet scarce had the girl departed before there appeared again the sound of running steps, and presently there broke, equally unannounced, into the presence of his mistress, the coachman, fresh from his stables and none too careful of his garb. Tears ran down his cheeks. He flung out his hands with gestures as of one dejected.

"The news!" cried he. "The news, my lady! The horrible news! The system has vanished, the shares are going down!"

"Fellow, what do you here?" said Lady Catharine. "Why do you come with this same story which Marie has just brought to me? Can you not learn your place?"

"But, my lady, you do not understand!" reiterated the man blankly. "Tis all over. There is no Messiasse; there is no longer any system, no longer any Company of the Indies. There is no longer wealth for the stretching out of the hand. 'Tis all over. I must go back to horses—I, Madame, who should presently have associated with the nobility!"

"Well, and if so," replied his mistress, "I can say to you, as I have to Marie, that there will still be money for your wages."

"Wages! My faith, what trifles, my lady! This Monsieur L'as, the director-general, he it is who has ruined us! Well enough it is that the square in front of his hotel is filled with people! Presently they will break down his doors. And then, pray God they punish him for this that he has done!"

The cheek of Lady Catharine paled and a sudden flush of contending emotions crossed her mind. "You do not tell me that Monsieur L'as is in danger, Pierre?" said she.

"Assuredly. Perhaps within the very hour they will tear down his doors and rend him limb from limb. There is no punishment which can serve him right—him who has ruined our pretty, pretty system. Mon Dieu! It was so beautiful!"

"Is this news certain?"

"Assuredly, most certain. Why should it not be? The entire square in front of the Hotel de Soisson is packed. Unless my lady needs me, I myself must hasten thither to add in the punishment of this Jean L'as!"

"You will stay here," said Lady Catharine. "Wait! There may be need! For the present, go!"

Left alone, Lady Catharine stood for a moment pale and motionless, in the center of the room. She strode then to the window and looked fixedly out. Her whole figure was tense, rigid. Yonder, over there, across the gabled roofs of Paris, they were clamoring at the door of him who had given back Paris to the king, and France again to its people. They were assailing him—this man so long unflinching, so consistent on his ambitions, so—so steadfast! Could he call him steadfast?

A quick, hard sob broke from her throat. In haste she flew, now to one part of the room, now to another, picking up first this article and then that which seemed of need. And so at last she hurried to the bell-cord.

"Quick," cried she, as the servant at length appeared. "Quick! Do not delay an instant! My carriage at once!"

TAKE BEDFORD PRISONER AWAY

HEAPS CURSES ON OFFICERS

James McDonald Proclaims His Innocence of the Crime After Uttering Vile Epithets and Threatening Death to Detective Who Made Arrest.

Bedford, Ind., Feb. 11.—James McDonald, charged with the murder of Miss Sarah Catherine Schaefer, has been taken to Jeffersonville, as mob violence was feared.

Before taking McDonald away the police took him to the alley and shed where the tragedy was committed. While at the scene of the murder he suffered a nervous collapse, which was repeated later when he was shown the bloody garments of the murdered girl. McDonald, when he recovered, cursed the officers and threatened Detective Reed with death when the opportunity offered. He was taken to the scene of the murder at midnight to avoid public attention.

When McDonald's home was searched an overcoat, a pair of pants and a pair of shoes were found to bear blood spots. The shoes fit the plaster casts of the footprints which were made in the alley near the shed where the dead teacher's body was found.

Wife Leaves House.

McDonald's wife says her husband left home the evening of the murder about 6 o'clock to see Dr. Smith and returned about 8 o'clock. He returned under the influence of liquor and was so ugly that she was afraid to stay in the house with him, going for the night to her mother's.

The officials state that McDonald is undoubtedly guilty. They are reserving some points, but what are publicly known, are enough to convict him.

Curses the Officers.

The prisoner was taken to Mayor Smith's office before the start for Jeffersonville. He was ugly and cursed the officers fiercely. He said that he could show that he had a good reputation and could prove an alibi without trouble. He was asked to explain how he could show an alibi when he admitted before the court of inquiry he was close to the murder spot at 6:35 o'clock p. m. He said he could do it all right when the time came. He was kept in the mayor's office until the last possible moment, and was then hurried to the Monon train for Jeffersonville.

Detective Reed, at whose instance the arrest was made, said: "We based McDonald's arrest on his own words before the court of inquiry as to his whereabouts on the night of the murder. We have good evidence or we would not have made the arrest. The motive was assault."

Declares His Innocence.

McDonald made a statement on arrival at the prison at Jeffersonville. He said: "My right name is William Parsons, although I am known by the name of James McDonald. So far as the crime with which I am charged is concerned, I am as innocent as a man could be. I got into this through my own foolishness. I made false statements before the court of inquiry. I can't explain why I did it, but I suppose it was because I wanted to make people think I knew something about the murder. I know absolutely nothing about the crime. The nearest I was to the place where Miss Schaefer was murdered was over half a block away at the doctor's office. I did not see her that night, never did see her and did not know there was such a woman living. I am not afraid to go back to Bedford, for I know I am innocent."

Sees as Messengers.

A French agriculturist has been experimenting with bees as messengers. He has discovered that they will return to their hives from a distance of four miles in about twenty minutes, bearing dispatches, after the manner of homing pigeons. The pigeons will retrace a distance of 500 or even 1,000 miles, and are in little danger of being driven out of business.

My Life

Hung On a Single Thread With Heart Disease.

You should never wait until your life hangs in the balance before you give the necessary aid to your sick heart. A weak heart is always serious, for it affects every organ of your body through its inability to purify and keep the system supplied with pure, rich, life-giving blood.

Any indication of heart trouble, such as shortness of breath after exercise, redness of face, hot flushes, oppressed feeling in chest, weak, hungry spells, palpitation, dizziness, sudden starting in sleep, irregular pulse, is serious, and should be cured at once.

The safest and surest treatment is Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, a nerve and muscle builder, a blood tonic. It acts directly on the heart nerves and muscles, giving them strength and vigor, and relieves every symptom of a sick heart. Your life depends upon your heart, and a weak, diseased heart, like a single thread, can endure but little.

"I suffered for years with my heart. At times my life hung by a single thread. A number of physicians and an eminent specialist treated me. Without the knowledge of my dear Dr. Miles' Heart Cure, it lifted the pain from my heart, and caused a free circulation of blood. I am now able to attend to my affairs, something I had never hoped to do again."—MRS. JOHN KOEGLER, 185 Clinton St., Cleveland, Ohio.

High Class Druggists AND — OTHERS.

The better class of druggists, everywhere, are men of scientific attainments and high integrity, who devote their lives to the welfare of their fellow men in supplying the best of remedies and purest medicinal agents of known value, in accordance with physicians' prescriptions and scientific formula. Druggists of the better class manufacture many excellent remedies, but always under original or official names and they never sell false brands, or imitation medicines. They are the men to deal with when in need of anything in their line, which usually includes all standard remedies and corresponding adjuncts of a first-class pharmacy and the finest and best of toilet articles and preparations and many useful accessories and remedial appliances. The earning of a fair living, with the satisfaction which arises from a knowledge of the benefits conferred upon their patrons and assistance to the medical profession, is usually their greatest reward for long years of study and many hours of daily toil. They all know that Syrup of Figs is an excellent laxative remedy and that it gives universal satisfaction, and therefore they are selling many millions of bottles annually to the well informed purchasers of the choicest remedies, and they always take pleasure in handing out the genuine article bearing the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package. They know that in cases of colds and headaches attended by biliousness and constipation and of weakness or torpidity of the liver and bowels, arising from irregular habits, indigestion, or over-eating, that there is no other remedy so pleasant, prompt and beneficial in its effects as Syrup of Figs, and they are glad to sell it because it gives universal satisfaction.

Owing to the excellence of Syrup of Figs, the universal satisfaction which it gives and the immense demand for it, imitations have been made, tried and condemned, but there are individual druggists to be found, here and there, who do not maintain the dignity and principles of the profession and whose greed gets the better of their judgment, and who do not hesitate to recommend and try to sell the imitations in order to make a larger profit. Such preparations sometimes have the name—"Syrup of Figs"—or "Fig Syrup" and of some piratical concern, or fictitious fig syrup company, printed on the package, but they never have the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of the package. The imitations should be rejected because they are injurious to the system. In order to sell the imitations they find it necessary to resort to misrepresentation or deception, and whenever a dealer passes off on a customer a preparation under the name of "Syrup of Figs" or "Fig Syrup," which does not bear the full name of the California Fig Syrup Co. printed on the front of the package, he is attempting to deceive and mislead the patron who has been so unfortunate as to enter his establishment, whether it be large or small, for if the dealer resorts to misrepresentation and deception in one case he will do so with other medicinal agents, and in the filling of physicians' prescriptions, and should be avoided by every one who values health and happiness. Knowing that the great majority of druggists are reliable, we supply the immense demand for our excellent remedy entirely through the druggists, of whom it may be purchased everywhere, in original packages only, at the regular price of fifty cents per bottle, but as exceptions exist it is necessary to inform the public of the facts, in order that all may decline or return any imitation which may be sold to them. If it does not bear the full name of the Company—California Fig Syrup Co.—printed on the front of every package, do not hesitate to return the article and to demand the return of your money, and in future go to one of the better class of druggists who will sell you what you wish and the best of everything in his line at reasonable prices.

Hockey and Its Wide-spread Popularity. An Irish Game. Automobiling Affairs: W. K. Vanderbilt, Jr.: Barney Oldfield's Prediction.

Hockey players are in clover these days. The great sport is now at its height, and indoor and outdoor games are being played with unrestrained enthusiasm.

Hockey teams have been organized in most every city in the United States. Contests are played on rivers and lakes and in inclosed rinks. Pittsburgh and New York may well be said to be the centers of indoor hockey in the east. The outdoor branch of the sport rules favorite in the western and middle western states.

Hockey was brought into this country from Canada, where its popularity is of immense proportions. It was exported from England to Canada, and England, in turn, received it from Ireland.

In the accompanying illustration is shown a familiar hockey scene. The photo from which the cut was made was snapped during the "face-off." The puck is being put into play, and the centers of either team face each other, hit the ice three times with their sticks and strike simultaneously at the puck. Whichever hits quicker and live will not be such hard work as might be supposed. But for every second under thirty-five there will have to be very marked improvement and scientific changes.

"Of course when motors travel thirty seconds to the mile, or a matter of 170 feet to the second, there will be danger. I have predicted a death or two at such speed, and they will come, but that will stop none of us from trying, for think of the good things awaiting the man who goes the mile in half a minute, or at a speed equal to the fastest locomotive!

"I would take nine chances in ten of losing my life to strike that mark, for with a thirty second mile my name would go around the world and my future would be made. Yes, it is going to be thirty seconds, and that is what we are striving at.

"The sensation of such a mile I can hardly tell you. I go a mile in forty-three now. I have traveled faster here, but you would not believe me if I told you, and I have no sensation other than that of ordinary riding. I suppose that the sensation would come to me with a mile down to thirty, and I hope to get that sensation before I die.

"Of course, I may die in making it, but I don't believe that on the Ormond-Daytona course I should be at all nervous going out after that mile. What is the use? You can die but once, and if it comes that way—why, it is all right."

It has been decided to hold the Gordon Bennett cup race earlier than first arranged. The race will be run on June 17 instead of in July, as at first planned, the change being made because of the fact that the Kaiser will be able to attend the race in June. The start will be made at Kastell Sautberg, and the route leads from there through Wehrheim, Uslungen, Gravenweibach, Wehlburg, Altdorf, Neckholzhansen, Obertiefenbach, Limburg, Kerberg, Neuhoof, Idstein, Esch, Glashutten, Königstein, Oberursel, Oberstetten and Dornholzhausen. The route is 137.6 kilometers long.

harder after the referee gives the word to begin of course gains the advantage.

William K. Vanderbilt, Jr. is now the acknowledged leader of American automobilists. His record breaking runs at Ormond Beach, Fla., startled the entire motor world. In covering a mile in thirty-nine seconds he achieved what many experts had up to that time declared impossible. Now, however, they are heeding. Barney Oldfield of Detroit, for instance, says the limit to speed is the mile in thirty seconds mark. He, too, may have made an inadequate estimate.

"The mile will be made in thirty seconds within two years," says Oldfield. "I do not believe that the thirty second mark will be struck within a year; still it may be reached. I will predict that within a year it will go under thirty-five. In fact, I am after that record.

"Of course others may reach it, for there are a lot in the field now—men of means and nerve, who have the time and inclination to buy fast cars and drive them.

"I want to have a car built for my use with which to make the try. The car as it is built today will not do that. The racing car for a thirty second mile must be built low. It must all be figured out by scientists carefully and planned in every way for this particular sort of straightaway work. The right car will not be useful for anything but just straightaway work.

"It must be built for the least wind resistance—low and scoop shaped, so the driver is inside the car and out of the wind himself.

"It may readily be seen then that the building of a car to go under thirty-

COMING ATHLETIC STARS.

Intercollegiate winners are now on college teams—Yale's "Pride," Princeton, Harvard, Yale, Pennsylvania, Columbia, Cornell and other college teams will be benefited during the coming season by intercollegiate cracks. Yale has secured the cream of the talent, Mike Murphy is not a bit backward in saying that Yale ought to be on top in athletics next spring.

One of the strongest additions to Murphy's combination is L. T. Sheffield, the New York intercollegiate wonder. He attained high honors last spring, first by winning five firsts and one second in the dual games between Berkeley (New York) and Cutler (New York) schools, a total of twenty-eight points, and then winning five championships in one afternoon at the spring meet of the Intercollegiate association.

In this meet he secured twenty-five points. Besides being a pole vaulter, broad and high jumper of no mean ability, Sheffield is a sprinter. At the intercollegiate championships he covered the distance in the 100 yard sprint in ten and two-fifths seconds and made a most remarkable record for a schoolboy by winning the 220 yard run in twenty-two and two-fifths seconds.

Another clever athlete for Yale is H. L. C. Roome, a pole vaulter. In many intercollegiate games held both in and out of doors his work has been watched with the keenest interest. In competition he has often cleared the bar at ten feet six inches.

The Princeton Auto Club.

The Princeton Automobile club has been organized among the undergraduates of Princeton university. Among the students at the college there are six heavy machines, as many light touring cars or runabouts, besides a dozen motor bicycles.

The Harvard lacrosse team may go to England next year to meet teams of English universities.

The Turf World.

John E. Madden, the Ed Geers of the Thoroughbred Arena. St. Louis Doings.

John E. Madden is making elaborate plans for the coming running turf campaign. This noted trainer has won an enviable reputation in the past as a "puller off" of successful coups, and he believes that he has a couple of "dark ones" in his stable that will surprise the knowing ones.

Madden is to the running turf what Ed Geers is to the light harness world. He has brought out many sensational stakes winners and in the last three or four years has laid away a tidy fortune. His judgment is relied on by owners of the largest racing stables in the land. William C. Whitney, August Belmont, E. R. Thomas and other well known millionaire turfmen have sought his judgment and paid him sensational sums for thoroughbred stables.

Madden believes that the coming season will prove one of the busiest in history. Many new men have entered the racing game, and rivalry will be all the more intense.

Madden believes that the coming season will prove one of the busiest in history. Many new men have entered the racing game, and rivalry will be all the more intense.

P. J. Carmody, general manager of the Union Jockey club of St. Louis says: "Good, clean, honest horse racing seems to be the most popular of all sports for the people of our country. At least they seem to enjoy it above all others.

"Racing plants all over the country have been making handsome profits for their stockholders and are giving what I deem very proper and larger amounts in purses and stakes to the horsemen.

"This encourages a higher standard of the sport. Speaking of the outlook in our city's world's fair year, the racing should be at its best.

"I regret the action of the Western Jockey club in not dealing fairly with the Union Jockey club. In refusing us stakes that body did not give any good or valid reason why we should not get a part of the season.

"Our plant is owned and will be controlled by good, fair people, most of whom were born and raised in St. Louis.

"The Union track will run with good horses and will hire the best officials that money can get.

"Our motto will be fair play to owners, bookmakers and the public, and on the fair mindedness of the people we will depend for support."

The Kansas City Jockey club is making quite a bid for the patronage of horsemen for its first meeting, which begins April 31. In its announcement of ten stakes, including a Derby and also a handicap for three-year-olds, to close March 1. The Derby is a pretentious affair for a beginner in the racing field, with $5,000 in added money, while the handicap, which is called the Star and Times stakes, has $1,500 added.

BIG STARCH MILL IS BURNED

Factory at Oswego, N. Y., Suffers $1,000,000 Loss in One Building.

Oswego, N. Y., Feb. 11.—The huge starch factory of the Corn Products company, consisting of three great buildings, forming the largest establishment of the kind in the world, was threatened with total destruction by a fire which started in the chemical room. One of the buildings was destroyed, the loss being over $1,000,000. After the city fire department and the volunteer department of Kingsford's mills had tried in vain to cope with the flames, Mayor Mansfield telegraphed for aid to Fulton and Syracuse. From the latter city three engines and twenty-five men were sent and joined their efforts to those of the local department. Firemen Dougherty and Evans were badly injured, the former fatally, by a fall from a roof. Twenty-five men at work in the building where the fire started barely escaped. The burned buildings contained many hundreds of thousands of bushels of starch and corn. Six hundred employes are thrown out of work.

Prompt, Easy Recovery.

The greatest thing in the world is a Mother's Love; the love she lavishes on her children; the love her child should have for her; without this love she could not endure the agonies incident to childbirth; appreciative of this love, Mother's Friend was devised to lessen the pain and anguish of childbirth, that her love might not be strained to the breaking point. Mother's Friend does all this and more—it enables the fond mother to speedily recuperate from the labor of maternity, enables her to regain her lost strength, preserves her youthful lines of beauty, and makes pregnancy her crowning joy without any thorns to mar it.

Mother's Friend

Is applied externally, is most harmless in its consistency, most happy in its results, and is of such merit that no case of labor should be conducted without its use. It is a liniment for massage of the abdominal muscles during pregnancy, and it uses their tonicity and power of contraction, greatly enhanced, enabling them to sustain the great strain brought to bear on them at this time. It is Mother's Friend. The name should be enough to recommend it to all who expect to be mothers.

ARCHBISHOP MESSMER TAKES CHARGE OF SEE

Imposing Ceremonies Attend Installation of New Head of Catholic Diocese of Milwaukee.

Milwaukee, Wis., Feb. 11.—The Most Rev. Sebastian G. Messmer was formally proclaimed archbishop of Milwaukee at St. John's cathedral Feb. 10. A large number of priests and lay delegates met the new archbishop in Green Bay, the entire party leaving for Milwaukee on a special train.

Upon arrival in Milwaukee the archbishop was accorded a royal welcome. The ceremonies at the cathedral incident to the formal installation of Monsignor Messmer's being proclaimed archbishop were performed by Father Schuler. Then came the presentation of the mitre and crozier, followed by the archbishop's formal address.

Archbishop Messmer will be unable to pontificate in public until the palm is conferred upon him next summer.

FORMER MAYOR ROCHE IS DEAD

Executive of Chicago in 1887 Succumbs to Heart Disease.

Chicago, Feb. 11.—John A. Roche, mayor of Chicago from 1887 to 1889, died of heart disease in the private office of R. W. Patterson, editor of the Tribune. Taken with dizziness, his condition became steadily worse in spite of the efforts of two physicians who had been hastily summoned, and he passed away while unconscious, in the presence of his son, his family physician and a few close business associates. Mrs. Roche was downtown shopping and could not be found. While the former mayor was still conscious his son, John A. Roche, Jr., E. A. Russell and C. G. Comstock, officials of the Erie Elevator Company, of which Mr. Roche was manager, reached his side. While talking to them his breathing became interrupted and it was found necessary to administer stimulants. These were of little avail, and the patient passed into unconsciousness and death a few moments before his daughter, the wife of Professor George C. Howland of the University of Chicago, arrived.

AMERICA IS TO SEIZE WARSHIPS

Santo Domingo Must Suffer for Firing on Yankee Shipping.

Washington, Feb. 11.—Because a Dominican gunboat fired on lighters landing part of the cargo of an American steamer, the New York of the Clyde line, Rear Admiral Wipe of the United States navy will probably seize the gunboat in question and tow it to Guantanamo. Specific instructions were called to Rear Admiral Wipe regarding the protection of American shipping in Dominican waters. The news of the firing on the lighter aroused indignation in official circles here and it is said at the navy department that the probable course of action after such an outrage would be the seizure of the gunboat.

JUDGE THROWS OUT BALL SUIT

Case Against Small and Miller Is Dismissed at Kankakee.

Kankakee, Ill., Feb. 11.—The bottom dropped out of the Harry H. Ball $50,000 false imprisonment suit against Trustee Small and Secretary Miller of Kankakee insane hospital. Judge Garney sustained the motion of the defendants' attorneys to take the case away from the jury and dismiss for lack of proof of malicious prosecution. The plaintiff appealed to the appellate court on a bill of exceptions, with the possibility that the case may be remanded for retrial.

COASTING ACCIDENT INJURES FOURTEEN

Toboggan Collides With Tree at Bottom of Long, Steep Hill at Battle Creek, Michigan.

Battle Creek, Mich., Feb. 11.—Fourteen young people were injured in a coasting accident on Barbour street hill. The party was on a long toboggan, which collided with a tree at the bottom of the hill. No one escaped unhurt. Those most seriously injured were:

Vera Smith, aged 12; leg and arm broken; face lacerated.
Walter Smith, brother, aged 10; compound fracture of leg below hip.
Cora Dennis, nurse at Adventist sanitarium; back and ankle badly sprained; head injured.

The hill adjoins the sanitarium and the prompt treatment obtained saved the lives of the Smiths. All the injured were Adventist young people except S. A. Fuhrman, a middle-aged man, invited to take his first coast since boyhood. His face was badly bruised and wrist sprained.

Barbour's hill has a long list of coasting casualties to its credit, being unusually steep.

KUROPATKIN CANNOT GO TO THE SEAT OF WAR.
St. Petersburg, Feb. 11.—Gen. Dragomirov arrived in St. Petersburg today. He is one of Russia's greatest fighters and may be appointed commander-in-chief, as Gen. Kuropatkin, the war minister, probably cannot be spared.

Team Ran Away Last Night: A livery team belonging to D. Ryan & Son ran away last evening and completely demolished one of their new sleighs.

Value of the Banana.
The banana possesses all the essentials to the sustenance of life. Of wheat alone, or potatoes alone, this cannot be said. When taken as a steady diet the banana is cooked—baked dry in the green state, pulped and boiled in water as a soup or cut in slices and fried.

MANCHURIAN BRIDGE GONE

have absolute supremacy of the sea in war waters.

Russian Fleet Bottled Up.
Little disposition is shown by Alex. leff, however, to accept the challenge. He realizes, reports to the government say, that in the crippled condition of his fleet he would have but little chance against the Japanese, who thus far have not suffered a scratch to one of the ships, despite the fierceness of the battles of Sunday and Monday. The Russian squadron, therefore, is bottled up as closely as was that of Cervera at Santiago, and the government hopes it will adopt the same course followed there, that of making a dash for freedom, even though the chance is a slim one.

Take Seven Prizes.
Another dash at Port Arthur was made by Admiral Togo and his fleet Wednesday afternoon. Seven Russian ships most of them small cruisers, are said to have been captured, but this report lacks confirmation. If it is true, it indicates that Admiral Alex. leff decided to accept his chances in the open and was badly defeated.

Another report, from Russian sources, says the Japanese battleship Shikishima was badly damaged and was afterward beached. This, however, is not believed to be true, as no official word has been received of such a disaster.

Capture 2,000 Prisoners.
Two Russian transports, carrying a total of 2,000 men and a quantity of arms and ammunition, were captured by the Japanese off Asan, Korea. One of the steamers is the Ekaterinoslav, of 10,000 tons, which is fitted out as an auxiliary cruiser and which is a most important addition to the Japanese fleet. The other is the Argun, belonging to the Chinese Eastern Railway company and chartered by Russia. The transports were captured by the cruisers Sal Yen and Hel Yen, and were sent to Saseho under a prize crew. The Ekaterinoslav will be refitted for service in the Japanese navy.

Seize Merchant Ship.
Three Russian merchant ships were also seized, two of them being rich prizes. They are the Moulken, Russia, and Alexander.

The work of landing troops on Korean soil is progressing rapidly and meets with no opposition from the Russian patrol boats sent to the Korean coast for the express purpose of preventing such a move. The Japanese have a large force of warships guarding their transports and covering the landing of the men, and there are not enough Russian vessels near at hand to effectually prevent the occupation of the Hermit Kingdom.

Cruisers Are Sunk.
Official news of the engagement at Chemulpo shows that two Russian warships—the Varang, a protected cruiser, and the Korietz, a gunboat—were sunk by the Japanese. The Japanese Admiral, who was escorting three transports filled with troops destined for Seoul, sent word to the Russian ships, which were lying in the harbor, that he would give them a time limit in which to leave.

Russians Make Attack.
The only response of the Russians was to come out of the harbor and attack a Japanese torpedo-boat, which answered with a torpedo, that did not, however, reach its mark. A warm engagement followed. Then the Russians, their two ships badly damaged, ran for the protection of the Polynesian islands, where both sank, the crews taking refuge on a French warship, none of them being drowned. The Japanese ships were not struck once. As soon as the Russian ships were disposed of the Japanese began to land their troops.

Japanese ships are guarding northern Japan, fearing that Russia might land a force from Vladivostok, and for the further purpose of preventing four Russian cruisers from joining the Russian fleet at Port Arthur. Other Japanese war vessels are cruising to intercept Russian vessels coming from Singapore.

The Korean court has asked and been accorded French protection.

To Attack Port Arthur.
As soon as enough troops are landed in Korea orders will be given the commanders of the various fleets to send as many vessels as they can spare to the vicinity of Port Arthur, where active measures will be taken to force the Russians out unless they have decided to accept the challenge for a sea battle. It is considered probable here that, with Rear Admiral Togo reinforced, an attack will be made on the Russian fleet and forts.

Minister Kurino has left St. Petersburg and gone to Berlin. He cabied that he had been accorded all courtesy by the Russian government, and that a special guard of troops accompanied him to the frontier.

Loot Japanese Houses.
Fugitives from Vladivostok accuse the Russians of openly looting Japanese houses there without interference by the police.

Tokio is quiet. While the Japanese are greatly elated by their victories at sea, they have recovered from their first excitement and returned to the usual calmness of the Oriental. Their placidity is astonishing to foreigners.

A formal declaration of war is expected. The proclamation has been prepared and approved by the cabinet. Foreign Minister Komura has gone to the palace to secure the emperor's approval.

STATE NOTES

The Western Canned Goods association, in session at Columbus, O., elected as president Dr. A. C. Fraser of Manitowish, Wis.

The Wisconsin state court, Catholic Order of Foresters, has passed resolutions extending to Congressmen Otjen and Senator Quarles its thanks for their services in furthering in their respective houses the resolutions accepting the Marquette statue.

Prof. F. J. Turner of the Madison board of education will tender his resignation on Friday. It is reported that several other members of the board holding stock in corporations will resign because of the notice served upon them by Alderman Sparling, chairman of the committee on claims, to the effect that bills of companies having members who are city officials presented against the city would not be acted upon favorably.

State Treasurer John J. Kempf announces that $32,077.52 was received in interest on state funds in state depositories last year. The amount is nearly double the expenses of maintaining the treasury department. The railroads of the state paid the balance due on the first half of their annual taxes. The Wisconsin Central paid $111,634.07, the Omaha $54,951.21, the Soo $34,213.44, the Milwaukee $12,625.76, and the North-Western $314,376.53.

SPARKS FROM THE WIRE

Bubonic plague has reappeared in Peru.

Thomas Phillips, a prominent politician and merchant of Dubuque, was convicted yesterday of influencing a juror in the interest of Alphonse Matheva, attorney for a corporation, and was fined $50.

Panle in a Minneapolis boarding-house when the building caught fire early yesterday morning resulted in the serious injury of six persons. Mrs. Mary Rothjeans will probably die from her injuries.

The grand jury of Kane county, Illinois, finds ninety buildings in the county without the fire escapes required by law. Thirty-four of them are in Aurora. All have been ordered to comply at once with the law.

Owing to the indisposition of Emperor Francis Joseph, who is suffering from lumbago, the levee in Vienna, set for today, has been cancelled.

United States Ambassador Meyer has left Rome for Berlin to be present at the dinner which Chancellors Tower, United States ambassador to Germany, is to give Emperor William.

Lord Roberts has accepted the appointment to the new office of inspector general. He will hold the post probably for six months, when he will be succeeded by the duke of Connaught, whose command in Ireland will be taken over by Lieutenant General Grenfell, the commander of the Fourth army corps.

Among the speakers at the Lincoln banquet in Grand Rapids, Mich., tomorrow night will be Thomas F. Pendel, who for forty years has been an usher in the white house. Pendel is now 80 years old, and it was he who last escorted President Lincoln from the white house to his carriage on the night of the assassination.

Mr. Pendel goes as the guest of Representative Alden Smith, who also will be accompanied by Baron Von Sternberg, the German ambassador. The bank at Millerstown, Pa., was wrecked by burglars, who obtained only $600.

The officials of the city of Baltimore express the belief that outside aid will be unnecessary.

James McDonald, a coal heaver, has been arrested at Bedford for the murder of Miss Schafer.

Congressman J. Adam Bede is making efforts to obtain the full pardon of Cole Younger, the ex-bandit. The cold weather has caused the blockade of 34,000 loaded cars between Pittsburgh and Buffalo and New York city.

Municipal ownership generally has been found expensive and untried. That is the declaration made by James H. Eckles in an address at Chicago.

The Russian commanders at Port Arthur are denounced at European capitals for being unprepared and the strategy of the Japanese is praised.

The action of the United States state department in taking the lead in solving the problems of diplomacy brought up by the Oriental war has established the prominence of this nation as a world power.

Erastus Wiman Is Dead.

New York, Feb. 11.—Erastus Wiman, whose name as a leader in the business world once was a household word in Canada and the United States, died in a little cottage on Staten Island, to which he had gone after his fortune had been swept away and his health broken. He was almost 70 years old.

Miss Bayliss Marries.

Springfield, Ill., Feb. 11.—Plato McCourtney and Miss Clara Korn Bayliss, daughter of State Superintendent of Public Instruction and Mrs. Alfred Bayliss, were married here. The wedding was a quiet home affair. The bride formerly was a teacher in the public schools at Elgin.

Advocate Polish Freedom.

Dies in Depot.

Chicago, Feb. 11.—V. E. Bell of Hillsdale, Mich., died in the La Salle street station. Bell succumbed to consumption. He was accompanied by his wife and was on his way home from the mountains of Colorado.

A King's Son Mot.

A compliment paid by King William to an American lady is thus recorded by Croovey: "Miss Cator told me a very pleasant saying of King Billy about Lady Wellesley. When she was in waiting at Windsor someone said: 'Do you come from that part of America where they "kues" and where they "calculate"?' King Billy said: 'Lady Wellesley comes from where they fascinate.'"

Where His Interest Lay.

At the end of a day's journey a traveler stopped for the night at a small rancher's shack in Montana. As he sat on the doorstep with him-host a troop of children began playing about them and he asked: "These all yours?" "Yep." "How many?" "Let's see," and the rancher hesitatingly began counting them up on his fingers. Pretty soon a drove of hogs came into view. "Yours?" asked the traveler. "Yep." "How many?" "Jest 500 to a pig," was the instant response.

Private Cars for King.

The King of Siam has ordered two new private railroad cars. The order was placed with a German firm, and each car will cost about $10,000. They will be lighted with electricity and fitted in all compartments with the most magnificent furniture.

Benefit of Cheap Power.

The cheap electric power generated at Decew Falls, ten miles from Niagara and thirty-four from Hamilton, in Canada, where the water has a descent of 280 feet, added to the influence of high Canadian tariff has led to the establishment of five large American factories, employing 700 men, at Hamilton.

The Best Sailors.

Scandinavians are universally regarded as the best deep-sea sailors. They are everywhere demanded by skippers in preference to any others. In time of danger they are the coolest, the most resourceful and the least likely to be stricken by the hopelessness of a situation. Sailors of the Latin races are apt to appeal to heaven when they should be shortening sail.

GOSSIP ON THE CHICAGO MARKET

Interesting News From the Closing Reports of the Windy City's Mart.

Chicago, Ill., Feb. 11.—The wheat market opened easier but with no great amount of trading. The trade was mixed in its opinion but rather favored the selling side and early in the session backed their belief up by liberal commitments on the short side with the usual result, that when they attempted to get it back there was none for sale except at higher figures. After depressing the July to 86 1/2 there was a very sharp scramble to cover which was helped by liberal purchases of the bull leader and a 2c recovery ensued. The advance was not held but it was demonstrated that wheat bulls very easily and the market is dangerous to monkey with on the short side. The price is going higher and in our opinion decidedly so and purchases should be made on breaks like today.

Corn opened easier and made a recession of about one cent from last night's close. On the decline the buying was excellent and shorts were forced to come in. It looks as if the ones sold out on the high prices were being rapidly reinstated. Buy corn. Oats got down to the low price of a day or so ago, but refused to be hammered any further and made a sharp advance of 1 1/2c. The opportunity was offered you to buy them and we advise their purchase. Oats are going higher.

Provisions were active and after an early decline developed marked strength. The action of the market looks good to us and we believe they can be bought on sharp breaks at any time.
